

In Focus!

Safe Workplaces For All

Submit your image of workplace safety and health Aug 1 - Sept 30

The National Institutes of Health (NIH) announces the “In Focus! Safe Workplaces for All” photo contest. The contest challenges anyone with a passion for photography to capture an image of workplace safety and health and share it with the Office of Research Services (ORS), Division of Occupational Health and Safety (DOHS).

The goal of the contest is to further efforts to reduce personal injuries and illnesses; educate and underscore the importance of safety; foster innovation to create shared solutions; and achieve community involvement by relying on your talent, imagination and creativity to raise awareness of workplace safety and health. You can interpret "image of workplace safety and health" in any way you choose; you are not restricted to particular subjects or themes.

The winning and finalist photographs will be displayed on the ORS, DOHS website. Additionally first, second and third place winning photographs will be framed and displayed throughout the NIH, to serve as daily reminders to leading researchers and prominent professionals, of the real-life impacts of the ORS, DOHS's mission. The top three winning individuals will also receive a framed certificate/plaque from NIH Leadership, along with recognition within official newsletters.
